

Sustainability reporting

KTH Royal Institute of Technology

Anna Berglund, Sustainability strategist

KTH Royal Institute of Technology

Sweden's oldest and largest technical university.

- Approx 14,000 full time students.
- Approx 1,700 active research students.
- More than 5,000 employees.

KTH's environmental and sustainability work

KTH is certified according to the international environmental management standard ISO 14001.

Areas for the university wide sustainability objectives:

- Education, research, collaboration
- Organization and working methods
- Resource management (travel and transport, procurement and waste management, sustainable buildings, food and food service, biodiversity and ecosystem services)
- Climate

Sustainability reporting

External reporting

Swedish Environmental Protection Agency
Annual report to the Government

Internal reporting

The University Board
Management review
Carbon footprint report (GHG Protocol)
Report on the UN Sustainable Development Goals

Rankings

QS World University ranking
Times Higher Education Impact ranking
Climate action ranking, climate students

The reporting process

Assignment from the management

Collection of data and information

Report

Publication of the result

Analysis and suggestions for improvement

Benefits and areas for improvement

Benefits

- Measuring impacts to take actions and to focus
- Transparency
- Improved relationships to stakeholders
- Attract students and researchers
- Strengthens our brand as a leading technical university

Areas for improvement

- Time
- Quality of data and information
- Collect sustainability data on an ongoing basis

Thank you for your attention!

